Leave a Lasting Legacy

What will happen to your estate when you pass on?

Will your land - perhaps carried down from ancestors - or your assets be available for future generations?

Does your will specify your desire to support your favorite causes or charities?

Planned Giving can ensure these questions are answered, as you wish, in your will or estate plan.

With the guidance of an estate-planning attorney familiar with local estate laws you can:

- ◇ Designate specific assets for your loved ones or favored charities.
- ◇ Bequeath or donate a portion of your assets to charities or causes.
- ◇ Establish a contingent bequest in case you outlive your heirs.
- ◇ Establish a beneficiary for a portion of your assets after providing for loved ones.
